Pennsylvania Fires Leave 9 Dead, 3 Missing

PHILADELPHIA (AP) Six children and three women burned to death today when a fast-spreading fire gutted a three-story brick home trapping the victims on the second and third floors where they were sleeping.

Four persons were injured, three while leaping out of windows to the pavement below. Two others escaped unhurt.

Police said they understood that 17 persons were in the building when the blaze was discovered at 7 a. m., leaving two unaccounted for.

All of the victims were Negroes, reportedly members of the same family.

The bodies were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. Immediate identification was not possible.

Firemen said the flames mushroomed through the small North Philadelphia dwelling with such speed that the victims had little chance to flee.

Firemen had the flames extinguished in less than an hour.

One man was hurt leaping to safety after smashing through the glass of a closed window. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Three others were treated at St. Luke's Hospital for severe bruises. They were identified as Lizzie Badsaln, 49; Magaline Wilson, 10; and Eddie Clay, 27.

WARREN, Pa. (AP) A roaring fire early today destroyed the century-old Carver Hotel, biggest in this city of 15,000. Hours later police still sought to contact three guests officially listed as missing.

The list of missing had been cut from an original total of seven as four men reported they had escaped safely from the blazing 105-room structure. But Police Chief Mike Evan, who had been optimistic that all guests would be found safe, admitted:

"We're worried about three men. We have been unable to find any trace of them."

One guest and one would-be rescuer were hospitalized for injuries. At least five other guests were treated for shock or minor injuries.

The four-story brick structure burned almost to the ground in the furious fire that was discovered shortly before 1:30 a. m. Sixty-five guests were registered in the hotel at the time.

Chief Evan said night clerk Edgar McAllen, bellman Raymon and Rogers and Harold Healy, a bartender, were "heroes." McAllen stuck to his post at the hotel switchboard until the fire melted the telephone wires. Then he grabbed up the register of guests and fled.

Rogers and Healy were running through the smoke-choked hallways, battering at doors and shouting an alarm to rouse guests.

Jerome Smith Files Tuesday for Assessor

Jerome Smith yesterday became the first candidate to pay his ballot fee as a candidate for Tax Assessor. In authorizing the Hope Star to carry his paid political card, Mr. Smith made the following announcement.

"After giving due consideration and with the encouragement of many citizens throughout the entire county, I am now a candidate for Tax Assessor. I was born and reared in Ozan and have been farming in that community all my life, and I know the problems of the farmer. I believe this, along with my other real estate activities during the past 20 years, gives me the necessary technical qualifications for the position I now seek."

"I have never before asked for a county office and I have only one promise to make—I will serve you to the best of my ability, and I assure you that if I am elected, your affairs will be handled in a business-like manner and all will be treated with courtesy and fairness."

"I will make every effort to discuss all of the issues with each of you personally, but if for any reason, I am unable to do so, your active support and influence will be sincerely appreciated."

Song services will be held at New Hope Church, eight miles south of Hope, starting at 10 a. m. Sunday, April 29. Preaching by the Rev. R. L. Martin of Texarkana will be at 11 a. m. Singing will follow the noon luncheon on the church grounds and at 2:30 p. m. the Rev. Mr. Martin will bring a second sermon. The public is invited to attend and bring lunches.

Faubus Formally Announces for a Second Term

By TOM DYCARD

LITTLE ROCK (AP) Gov. Orval Faubus today filed for re-nomination with the express belief that "there are others interested in the job."

The governor, nearing the end of his first term, said he decided to run only yesterday.

He filed his party loyalty and anti-corrupt practices pledges with the Secretary of State this morning after returning from an out-of-town trip.

He is the first candidate to file for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

At a news conference after filing his pledges, Faubus said he didn't know who his opposition might be or how strong it could be.

Possible candidates against Faubus are Chris Finkbeiner, a Little Rock meat packer; James L. Johnson of Crossett, director of the Arkansas White Citizens' Council; Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry; and former state senators Lee Reeves of Warren and Jim Snoddy of Alma.

Faubus said he didn't know yet where or when he would open his campaign, if opposition developed before the May 2 filing deadline. He said he expected to campaign for a month or six weeks.

An option on campaign headquarters at the Ne Capital Hotel in downtown Little Rock already has been obtained, he said.

No campaign manager has been named.

Faubus said "several people" paid his filing fees.

The governor was vague about issues that he thought might crop up during the campaign. He said he didn't think school integration would be "too much of an issue."

Asked about other possible issues he said: "I couldn't say."

Pickup Hits Another, Goes Into Yard

A pickup truck driven by Roy T. Lincoln of Horatio hit the back of another truck at a Highway 67 barricade near Hope city limits about 9 o'clock last night and careened off into the yard of the Fred McElroy home.

Investigating City officers said the second truck, driven by Wesley Harris Jr., of Prescott West three, had stopped due to one-way traffic where the highway is being patched. They said Lincoln, driving a pickup owned by the K. Lee Williams Theaters, Inc., hit the Prescott truck from behind and went some 37 feet into the yard. There was considerable damage to both trucks.

Lincoln was charged with reckless driving.

A Lowly Key Is King Among Germans Who Lock Everything From Houses to Bicycles

By HERB ALTSCHULL
For Hal Boyle

A FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Don't let anybody tell you that in Germany, beer is king. The real sovereign of the federal republic is the lowly key.

Keys are everywhere. You can't get into a mouse hole without one. The German housewife wouldn't know where to begin her day without her pack of keys.

She carries at least a dozen of them, sometimes a score or more.

First there's the key to the front door. Sometimes there are more than one—for instance, the keys to the bolts.

Then, if she lives in an apartment, there is a key to the apartment door. In each door of the house, whether it be a two-room flat or a 20-room mansion, there is the familiar key. Many Germans still lock themselves into their bedrooms at night.

But this is only the beginning of the key cycle. There are keys to the back door, too; to the basement, to the attic, to the china closet, the desk, even to the fuse box.

Strange as it may seem, Germans even lock up their refrigerators at night.

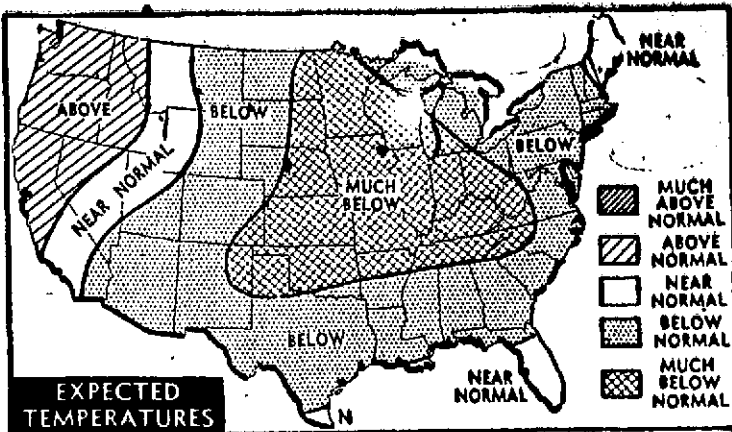

Beer, of course, is a German institution, too. The ministry of foods announced this month that

Farmers Can Now Release Cotton Acres

Cotton producers who do not intend to plant their cotton acreage allotments in 1956 may now release such acreage to the Hempstead County ASC Office for reallocation by the County Committee to other farms in the county, according to H. B. Gilbert, Chairman of the Hempstead County ASC Committee.

The chairman further states that producers who intend to plant part of their allotments this year may also release that part which they do not intend to plant in 1956.

Mr. Gilbert pointed out that it would be to the farmers' advantage, as well as to the advantage of other cotton farmers in the county, for farmers to contact the county office immediately and release to the committee any or all of the allotment for their farms in 1956.

Under program regulations for 1956 the released acreage will be regarded as having been planted to cotton on the farm releasing the acreage in 1956, unless no cotton was planted on the farm in the last three years immediately preceding determination of the allotment.

"In other words," the chairman continued, "the farm releasing the acreage for 1956 will get credit for planting rather than the farm receiving the released acreage, unless the producer releasing the acreage has failed to plant any cotton on his farm in 1954 or 1955 and also does not plant any cotton in 1956."

For additional information farmers are invited to contact the County ASC Office in the Court House in Hope.

Benson Favors Speedy Passage of Soil Bank Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson made a new plea today for Congress to approve quickly President Eisenhower's soil bank bill. He said prompt action would enable the program to get under way for fall-seeded crops.

Benson, testifying before the Senate Appropriations Committee on his department's annual money bill, said "we should start work shortly" if the soil bank is to get into operation for the fall planting.

To plan for fall-seeded crops, farmers should know as promptly as possible the terms of the acreage reserve," he said. "Flowing will be under way within 90 days — then comes liming, fertilizing and seeding in rapid succession."

Benson noted that several soil bank bills have been introduced since the President vetoed the omnibus farm bill which contained a soil bank program.

But he singled out as "legally sufficient and administratively satisfactory" the bill put in by Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), the administration's farm spokesman in the Senate, and more than 40 other senators.

This bill provides authority for the advance payments this year to farmers, which Eisenhower wants, he said.

Some Democrats in Congress contend Benson already has authority to set up a soil bank and have offered legislation to provide $1,200,000,000 for soil bank payments this year. Benson, however, contents new authorization for such pending is needed.

Benson, in his lengthy statement defended the administration's decision to support basic crops at not less than 82½ per cent of the parity this year — a move criticized by Democrats as abandonment of the flexible price support system Eisenhower has advocated.

Benson also defended his controversial order issued Monday to give 70 per cent price supports to corn producers even if they do not curtail their production by accepting acreage allotments.

Democrats charged this would bring an avalanche of corn surpluses this year — surpluses often criticized by Benson in the past.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), who heads the subcommittee handling the department's money bill, said before today's session he is "confident there will be a soil bank program approved by the Congress this session."

He made this comment as he asked Secretary of Agriculture Benson to appear at a hearing of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee handling the annual farm money bill.

Russell, who heads the subcommittee, said he would question Benson and other Eisenhower administration officials about a House Democratic proposal to vote $1,200,000,000 for soil bank payments this year.

The soil bank proposal, President Eisenhower's major 1956 farm recommendation, contemplates paying subsidies to farmers who agree to remove from production and they otherwise would plant to crops already in surplus.

Many key Democrats have argued that if Congress votes the money, Benson can put a soil bank program into operation under authority of a 20-year-old soil conservation law. Benson disputes this, saying new authority is required, and there were indications that some Democrats at least are coming around to that view.

The soil bank was included in a catch-all farm bill which Eisenhower vetoed last week on grounds that high price supports and other provisions it contained would nullify the benefits he says will come from a soil bank.

He asked Congress to approve quickly a simple soil bank bill, and a number of Congress members have introduced such legislation.

Chairman Ellender (D-La.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee said in a separate interview what "I think the Senate should wait and see what the House does first."

He added: "After all, there are half a dozen different soil bank bills floating around now."

Won't Call Off Hydrogen Bomb Tests

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower today rejected suggestions that the United States call off the hydrogen bomb test in the Pacific next month.

He said such tests are linked inseparably with the development of guided missiles.

Mr. Eisenhower also said he believes no useful purpose would be served now by a visit of Soviet Leaders to this country.

And he said he can see no logical reasons for reducing taxes this year.

He told his news conference that as of now he is convinced it would not be in the good interest of America to lower tax rates. He made clear that this attitude would hold even if the federal surplus during the current fiscal year should prove to be considerably larger than the $200 million forecast by the treasury last January.

Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential aspirant, said Saturday the United States should consider halting the H-bomb test as a gesture toward disarmament.

Stevenson yesterday also urged greater speed in the development of guided missiles.

Mr. Eisenhower said he found it paradoxical for a person on one hand to urge as hard work as possible on missiles and then ask that work be stopped on the H-bomb. The President said it would be impudent to have one without the other.

Engineer Board Hears Testimony by Both Sides in Millwood Dam Issue

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Sweden said today that Gösta-Go Chief Heinrich Himmler was a traitor to Adolf Hitler two years before the fall of the German Third Reich.

A historical White Book published by the Swedish Foreign Office brought out that in 1943, Himmler sought peace contacts with the Western powers through Sweden and behind the Fuehrer's back.

Germany's surrender, ending World War II, did not come until May 7, 1945. Hitler already had killed himself in his Berlin bunker. Himmler later did the same in British captivity.

The White Book said Himmler made "consistent efforts to arrange peace contact with the Western powers via Sweden." It recalled his 1945 talks with the late Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden.

But it said he also asked Sweden's leading banker, Jacob Wallenberg, three times to arrange such contacts—in 1943, 1944 and 1945.

ALASKA — 27 precincts: Democratic 440; Kefauver 273; Eisenhower 346; Knowland 26. Voters displayed relatively little interest in two of the three contests. The turnout ranged from an estimated 25 per cent of eligible voters in Pennsylvania to 10 per cent in Massachusetts.

A heavy vote was reported in Alaska but counting was slowed by complicated ballots and vast distances involved.

British Still Hope Russians Will Give Some

BY HAL COOPER

LONDON (U.S.A.) — The visit by Soviet Premier Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev entered its final 48 hours today amid lingering British hopes that the Russians may yet make some dramatic concession to ease world tension.

The official program called for their series of secret talks with Prime Minister Eden to end with a session today at No. 10 Downing St. Eden's official residence.

But Bulganin and the Communist party chief, who leave for home Friday, cleared the decks for a possible extension of the talks by calling off two scheduled public appearances. These were a news conference, originally set for this afternoon and a tour of the Calder Hall atomic plant tomorrow morning. The news conference was rescheduled for Friday, a few hours before they are to leave for Moscow.

The slim prospect that the visit might still result in some substantial narrowing of East-West differences received a slight boost from a talk Khrushchev had last night with Harold Stassen, President Eisenhower's special adviser on disarmament.

Stassen and Khrushchev got together in an anteroom barely removed from the hubbub of a Soviet reception at fashionable Claridge Hotel. They talked two hours, "all about disarmament and nothing else," Stassen said.

Stassen wouldn't tell reporters whether they made any progress on disarmament but he added: "I am going to report to the President tonight just what he said. I think it's that important."

President Piles Up Big Vote Lead

PHILADELPHIA (U.S.A.) — President Eisenhower rolled up a 260,000-plus plurality over Adlai Stevenson in Tuesday's Pennsylvania primary battle for "popularity" votes with both major parties expressing satisfaction at the result.

Republican State Chairman Miles Horst said the Eisenhower vote was a "resounding endorsement" of the national administration.

James A. Finnegan, Stevenson's campaign manager, said in the Pennsylvania voting his candidate did "exceedingly well, far exceeding our expectations."

It was one of the lightest votes in Pennsylvania's political history. With three fourths of the ballots counted, the results were: Republican — 1,182 of 8,730 precincts. Eisenhower 761,859; Sen. William F. Knowland of California, on the ballot against his wishes, 38,151.

Democratic — In 7,159 precincts, Stevenson, 495; Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, who was not on the ballot and who made no bid for support, 21,726.

While the Eisenhower-Stevenson battle was billed as a "popularity contest," it was strictly an intra-party election. In Pennsylvania primaries, voters cannot cross party lines.

Murphys of El Dorado to Sell Stock

LITTLE ROCK (U.S.A.) — The Murphy Corporation, headed by Charles H. Murphy, Jr., of El Dorado, is about to offer a reported 15 per cent or more of its 3 1/2 million shares of family-held stock for public sale, the Arkansas Gazette said today.

The Gazette said that Murphy Corporation has fixed assets of more than 70 million dollars and that lowest of unofficial estimates was that the reported impending sale would realize around eight million dollars.

The Murphy Corporation organized in 1950, has varied enterprises, stemming principally from oil, agriculture and timber are among other enterprises.

The Gazette said it wasn't known—and might never be—what prompted the Murphy family and its associates to decide to dispose of a "substantial portion" of the stock.

The newspaper said 90 per cent of the stock is held now by Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, his three sisters and their husbands, and that the remaining 10 per cent also is within the family or held by close associates.

The Murphy family has been identified with south Arkansas development, particularly in oil, since the late Charles H. Murphy

Sr. moved to El Dorado in 1904. The family's activities have been expanded to a number of other states.

The Gazette said details of the proposed stock sale would be set out soon in filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington.

The newspaper said also that a syndicate headed by Lehman Bros. of New York would underwrite the stock offering.

Charles H. Murphy Jr., who is president of the corporation, was reported in New York.

Nixon Hasn't Said Yes Yet, Ike Comments

WASHINGTON (U.S.A.) — President Eisenhower said today Vice President Nixon has not told him definitely whether he wants to be the President running mate again this fall.

Eisenhower also told a news conference, on other political topics: 1. He thinks the Democrats are right in making him, rather than his administration generally, a chief target of criticism. After all, the President said, he is the head of the administration.

He commented that he has been shot at before.

Envoy Hopeful of Easing New M. E. Tension

JERUSALEM (Israeli Sector) — (UP) — U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld conferred today in Amman with Jordan Premier Samir El-Rifai in hopes of ending the suddenly renewed tension along the Israeli-Jordan frontier.

Hammarskjöld flew to the Jordanian capital late yesterday and conferred with young King Hussein only hours after Israel charged that Arab infiltrators slipped across the border from Jordan and killed four civilians.

The border between Israel and Jordan is the only one not protected by a cease-fire agreement. Hammarskjöld worked out a cease-fire last week between Israel and Egypt and a conditional one between Israel and Syria early this week.

Today Hammarskjöld filled in Rifal on his proposals. Informal sources said Jordan did not prepare any proposals itself to submit to the U.N. chief and that the talks were limited to a border agreement and not to political aspects.

Jordanian government sources said King Hussein welcomed Hammarskjöld to the Middle East and wished him success in his peace mission.

It was announced that Hammarskjöld would return tomorrow to Beirut, Lebanon, his central operating base during his Middle East peace talks.

Israeli newspapers today accused the Arab nations of deliberately "scorning" Hammarskjöld's peace mission and said they were using his presence in the Middle East to increase tension.

NAACP Hopes State Buses Will Convert

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — The Arkansas field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said here last night that he hopes Little Rock bus companies will make "the transmission from segregation to non-discrimination with the least publicity and commotion."

Frank W. Smith of North Little Rock said the organization feels "certain this will be done in keeping with the law as announced in the recent ruling of the United States Supreme Court."

Smith said that in the event that city and interstate transportation companies operating from Little Rock do not discontinue segregation practices on buses of their own accord, NAACP officials will get together to plan a request.

The field secretary's statement came on the heels of Monday's Supreme Court ruling against separate seating of white and colored passengers on interstate and municipal buses. Both Arkansas and Little Rock have laws requiring such separation.

Awards At Recent Flower Show

On Friday April 20, the Armory was the scene of the loveliest flower show ever presented in Hope. Many hours of preparation and labor went into turning the large hall into a scenic garden. The show which has been presented annually by the Hope Federation of Garden Clubs for a number of years was attended this year by 461 people between the hours of 2 and 8 p. m. This included a group from Texas who have been touring flower shows in the southwest, and were most complimentary by expressing their opinion that this was the finest they had attended.

The free will offering accepted at the registrar's desk netted the Federation $107.94. Refreshments were served to all in attendance by the Hospitality Committee.

Judges for the flower show were: Mrs. Walter Breyman and Mrs. Nesbitt of Magnolia and Mrs. Bryant of Arkadelphia.

Mrs. Bert Rettig served a noon luncheon to the judges, Mrs. J. C. Carlton, Mrs. R. L. Broach, Mrs. Harold Brents and Mrs. Joe Reese. The judging went as follows:

10 million gallons of beer were consumed in the federal republic in 1955.

This averages out, the ministry said, to 20 gallons per person, including women, children, old people and refugees.

And they all use keys, an indefinite number, since there is not yet a federal ministry of keys to keep score.

If anybody happens to lock the key inside a room or a refrigerator, he'll send out a call for the "schlosser," or keymaker, a busy fellow in this country.

No self-respecting German motorist would ever leave his car unlocked, even for a quick dash into the grocery store. The quaint American habit of leaving motor running and the keys in the car shocks German sensitivity.

Not long ago an American businessman in Frankfurt bought a house and went on an inspection tour with his landlord. The living room was locked and no key was during the day, taking care of my invalid grandmother, cleaning and cooking.

Dear Joanne: Your parents are trying to keep you from making a habit of foolish mistakes. A curfew is a step in the right direction. They're taking care of you and your son, a responsibility that your husband should be shouldering. Meeting their requirements is not too much for you to give in return.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I enjoy reading the cautious advice you give women who contemplate marrying a divorced man who pays support money for his children by a previous marriage. I married a man who was supporting three children. I sympathized with him for the marital mix-up he was in.

However, you know the old adage, "There are two sides to every story." Well, I only heard one — his side.

Now I find, one marriage, three children and seven years later, that the situation is almost the exact duplicate of his first marriage.

I guess there's a moral to this story — no housewife will discard even a bad lemon if there is the remotest possibility of salvaging any portion of it.

MRS. M. B.
Dear Mrs. M. B.: Thanks for passing on your story. It may lead some gal to contemplate and investigate.

Dear Dorothy Dix: When I was 15 a very foolish mistake. I ran away to get married. Now, three years later, I am divorced and have a small son. The problem is that my folks (with whom I live) make me meet a curfew. I have to be home at 12, or I hear about it for days on end. I do plenty of work evident.

"It's in the basement," said the landlord. "Let's go get it."
But the basement was locked, too. The call went out for the "schlosser."

Sociologists have an explanation for the German key consciousness. They explain that the German people are more security conscious than any other people in the world.

This is so, they say, because Germany has for centuries been surrounded by hostile, or a potentially hostile, forces. The Austrians to the south, the French to the west, the Swedes to the north and the Russians to the east.

Therefore, according to the explanation, Germans tend to protect what they have — even down to the sausages in the refrigerator.

"Some have been led to believe, and honestly feel, that there are enormous acreages of timberlands and agricultural, cultivated land involved. It is ridiculous to contend that this small amount of acreage, 5,000 to 10,000 acres, would have any large time operation and especially when one big company involved, over half or less of this small amount."

Johnson Raps Election Year GOP Policy

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) says the Republicans favor high crop price supports in election years, but are low props in years when they are not running for office.

Johnson, the Democratic leader in the Senate, spoke for his party at night in a nationwide radio-TV speech replying to Eisenhower's address a week earlier explaining the veto of the election-year farm relief bill.

Johnson's Democratic contended that when Eisenhower first ran for the presidency four years ago, he campaigned for high supports as "the best thing for the farmer."

After the Republicans won, Johnson said, "this promise was forgotten."

Then, after vetoing the farm bill largely because of high supports, Johnson said, "the Republicans completely abandoned their flexible supports" by raising price props for cotton, wheat, corn and rice above previously announced or anticipated levels for 1955 and in 1956 the Republicans favor high supports in election years and low supports in non-election years.

The past is any guide to the future, Gen. Eisenhower's Republican administration will go back to the present flexible system of price props ranging from 75 to 90 percent of parity, a standard given in farm law and designed to give farmers a fair return in relation to their costs.

HEART-STOPPING PROGRESS—Another medical frontier has been crossed. Surgery on a completely stopped and bloodless heart has been reported for the first time by a team of Cleveland, Ohio, surgeons. The new operation, developed at the Cleveland Clinic, defies one of the most basic concepts of surgery, using the dried "cardiac arrest" for the benefit of both patient and doctor. Potassium citrate is injected into the crown of the heart after heart and lungs have been bypassed by the now familiar heart-lung machine. When the operation is over, the heart resumes its rhythmic beating automatically. THE LONG BODY

by Helen McCloy

THE STORY: Alice Hazard has been unable to learn why John Hazard, her husband, kept a dossier on Cristina Lash before his death. Cristina denies ever having met John. But the dossier, and the envelope on which Cristina's name was written, is missing. Returning from visiting the Byrd-Cushings, Alice and her son Malcolm, who seems to be infatuated with Cristina, are nearly killed by a speeding car. Alice is taken to a hospital.

CHAPTER XV

Byrd wore loose tweeds with a belt that sagged around the hips—the nearest he ever came to town clothes. He promptly sailed his hat across the room to a bureau, took off his jacket and loosened the knot in his necktie as if such constricting garments could not be borne for another moment now he was among friends.

"Alice, darling," Betsy kissed her. "Do you feel better now?"

"A little," Alice's gaze shifted to Byrd. "Are the police doing anything at all?"

Byrd's gaze wandered. They haven't turned up anything yet. "Have they arrested Cristina Lash?"

Byrd sighed and looked over in the eyes. "No Alice. There just isn't any evidence. But your statement, Malcolm didn't see a thing."

"Her car?"

"There was mud on the tires, but there would be anyway. There was mud everywhere, that day."

"Fire marks on the road?"

"No marks when we got there. The mist had turned to rain. If there were any, they had been washed away."

"No dent on the car?"

Byrd smiled crookedly. "You got the dents."

"Byrd, do you mean that," she said, "you didn't see her face going to get away with it?"

"Looks that way... if you're sure you didn't make a mistake. After all, how could she leave her father so late at night? You said she told you the nurse isn't there."

"She could have left him those few minutes."

"Well, look at it as the police do, Alice. You don't like Cristina Lash and you've been brooding over Malcolm's apparent interest in her for several days. The whole thing happened in a split second. No doubt a woman was driving the car, probably a dark-haired woman, and in that instant of shock and pain your mind saw her after ward as Cristina. Observation and memory both are distorted by shock. You had more than shock. You had concussion. It's possible that your memory of the last moments just before the accident is quite unreliable, a blend of fact and fantasy, a sort of waking dream."

Betsy took over. "As it is, Alice, the police just think you're imagining things!"

"You mean," said Alice grimly, "they think the shock of John's sudden death has unbalanced my mind?"

"Something like that," admitted Byrd. "Let's face facts; you can't prove a thing."

"Then what are we going to do?"

"Watch and wait. What else can we do? If the police are wrong, and you're right, she'll make a false step sooner or later."

"Such as trying to kill Malcolm while I'm still in the hospital?"

Byrd, you didn't see her face

Reaction to NATO Plan Asked by Dulles

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, in the manner of a man dipping his toe into water to see if he gets chilled or overheated, seems to be suggesting the North Atlantic Treaty Organization might be expanded.

The idea isn't new with him. At the moment he does not commit himself to it. Rather, he is frankly throwing out a hint to see what reaction he gets.

An expansion would mean the 15 allies of NATO, which was created in 1949 as defense against Russia, would move from a purely military alliance into a wider field—perhaps economic—of cooperation among the western partners.

Pressure has been building up among this country's NATO allies to stop using it for military purposes only. Dulles mentioned this possibility in a speech yesterday to the Associated Press luncheon in New York.

He said NATO "already serves as an indispensable and vital instrument of the Atlantic community. But the time has come, I believe, to consider whether its organization does not need to be further developed. If it is adequately to serve the needs of this and coming generations," Dulles added:

"If that be the common desire of the NATO member nations, the United States will join eagerly in exploring the possibilities which now beckon forward."

Last Dec. 16 the NATO foreign ministers, including Dulles, endorsed a proposal by Italy's Gaetano Martino for greater cooperation among the NATO members in non-military ways, such as economic, social and cultural fields.

Canada's foreign minister, Lester Pearson, has been nudging this idea and on Feb. 27 Italy's President Giovanni Gronchi made a big pitch for it in an address to Congress.

"Military cooperation continues to be very important today," Gronchi said, "but it should be supplemented with new and imaginative forms of cooperation. The new methods should range from the political to the social and economic areas."

The next day, March 1, President Eisenhower and Gronchi issued a joint statement saying they agreed on the necessity of "further deepening the solidarity among the members of the North Atlantic community through increased cooperation in all fields."

That U.S. allies are not completely happy with the military emphasis this country has placed on NATO up to now was disclosed in other ways, ways which must have given Dulles some concern, since he knows Russia wants to wreck NATO.

This month French Premier Guy Mollet said the United States thinks too much of "security in military terms." And on March 2, France's Foreign Minister Christian Pineau cautioned against an "incurable mental inertia" in the West. He said the West—particularly the United States—put too much emphasis on military strength.

On March 29 the Parliament of Iceland, which is a NATO member through the windshield just before the car struck. I did. That woman meant to kill us both just as she killed John. It would be different if it were just myself but Malcolm...

"John was not a young man," said Byrd. "And the circumstances were special: a dark, misty night at the edge of a cliff. But Malcolm is young and strong and aware that you suspect Cristina is trying to kill you. She couldn't get him to come to the edge of a cliff with her now and she wouldn't dare risk another car accident so soon."

"You can keep an eye on Malcolm for a day or a week or a month—but not forever. How can I save him if the police believe a word I say? There's only one way: I shall have to kill her first."

Betsy stared at Byrd. "She's delicious. This isn't Alice." Alice's voice went on, higher and clearer. "There's a deer rifle in the living room. It's loaded. She told me so herself. And there are French windows with little panes. If the door were locked, you could break the glass, reach the latch inside. No other house near. No one to hear a shot. Some sneak thief who panicked and snatched up the gun when Cristina caught him... her ruby watch in the grass outside... to make it look like a thief in flight, throwing away loot that may hang him..." Her voice soared to a scream.

The door opened and the nurse came in. "Did I hear you call, Mrs. Hazard?"

Alice shook her head, but the nurse turned to Byrd and Betsy. "I think you've been here long enough. She needs rest."

The door shut. Alone Alice lay still, her mind empty, till at last she felt the curious, voluptuous peace of the drug she had taken creeping through her nerves. A subtle intoxication. No desire to shout or sing. No desire at all. Just a melting lassitude, a blurring of all sensation.

She heard the door open. Her languid eyelids did not move. Footsteps. The nurse again? Then came, Malcolm's voice: "She's asleep."

Jean Cushing's voice answered: "You're sure?"

Spring Floods All Across the Nation

By United Press

Spring floods mingled with a winter comeback across the nation and Canada today.

Torrents of melting snow sent rivers over their banks in Idaho, North Dakota, and across a vast area in Manitoba. Rains measured unofficially at 10 inches flooded streets in the West, but put a wintry chill on much of the Midwest and East.

A rash of snowstorms swept the Midwest and Eastern seaboard yesterday, dumping a foot of snow on Nebraska, eight inches on Blairsville, Pa. and a half a foot on Massachusetts' Berkshire mountains.

The weather threw everything it had at Schroon Lake, N.Y., including swirling snow, sleet, hail, rain, driving winds, fog interspersed with warm breezes, and sunshine topped off by a rainbow.

And at New Hampshire's Grenier Air Force Base, an Air Force transport, carrying a heavy load of snow on its wings, crashed on takeoff. Nine of the 11 men aboard were injured.

The worst spring floods were in the province of Manitoba, where a 58-mile stretch from Winnipeg westward was a huge lake. A 140-mile river valley from Winnipeg to Brandon was an expanse of waste and destruction, with flood waters spilling into scores of farm homes and flowing over thousands of acres of rich farm land.

The flood threat mounted in Idaho in the wake of the St. Joe River's break through one of three "dangerously weak" dikes below St. Maries.

About 640 acres of top farm land went under the floodwaters. Practically every stream in the state was inching towards flood stage and the Coeur d'Alene river was already flooding basements and roadways around the villages of Medinot and Cataldo.

In North Dakota, a flash flood triggered by melting snows sent 10 families scurrying from their homes at Neches. Water covered 12 blocks of the community.

The flooding rains in southeast Texas were welcomed as a boon, even though water stood door-high deep on some Corpus Christi streets before it began to drain off. The Corpus Christi cloudburst amounted to a three-month supply of rain soaking rains farther south in the lower Rio Grande valley promised to end a critical water shortage.

Nelson-Hill Auxiliary To Sponsor Poppy Day Sale

The Nelson-Hill Auxiliary No. 427 met in a special meeting and completed plans to hold its 2nd Spring Poppy Sale May 5, 1936.

Mrs. Wordia Stuart, chairman of the poppy sales, along with other members of the unit and a group of young ladies have graciously given their time and service to sell this memorial to honor the war dead and help the disabled veterans.

The idea of the poppy as a memorial flower for the World War dead sprang up as naturally as the little wild flower itself grows in the fields of France and Flanders. The flower was the one touch of beauty which survived amid the hideous destruction of war. Along the edge of the trenches, beneath the tangled barbed wire, about the ragged shell holes and over the fresh graves it raised its brave red blossom. It seemed to be the one immortal thing in that region where death reigned.

The soldiers of all nations came to look upon it as a living symbol of the sacrifices of their dead comrades. Wear a poppy May 5.

The purposes of this sale will be explained in a series of articles in this column daily from now until May 5.

Things Happen to Television Viewers

BY CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Sitting quietly at home watching the television set would seem to be a safe and sane pastime. Yet look at some of the things that have been happening in recent weeks:

An Ardmore, Okla., couple were sitting on opposite sides of their living room, gazing happily at their TV set when an auto crashed through the wall, passed between them, and came to rest at the end of the room. The startled motorist, who had sideswiped a car outside, swept a large sofa, a chair and a stove before him. He didn't touch the TV set.

A fellow in Guelph, Ont., was watching a TV movie of a fire when his wife began shouting, "Fire!" Irritated, the husband said, "I'm watching it. Don't bother me." Minutes later firemen extinguished a $3,000 blaze in their kitchen.

In a way George Gavel is to blame for this one. A San Bernardino, Calif., woman laughed so uproariously at his Saturday night show that she awakened her husband, who cursed her out. To frighten him, she got a pistol and fired one shot. Her husband looked at her with a surprised expression and walked out of the house. She went to bed. In the morning she found him 60 feet from the house, dead from a bullet wound.

In Malletts Bay, Vt., there was a man who didn't like the TV program his wife was watching. So he went to the garage to listen to his car radio. To keep warm, he turned on the motor briefly. In the morning he was found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning.

An elderly woman in Oakland, Calif., was watching TV when she was taken ill. She lay for 42 hours in front of her set before help arrived.

Some Advice on Writing TV Stories

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP) — "Even I can write a better script."

That is often the feeling of TV viewers as they switch off their sets after watching a comedy or drama on which scores of people, besides the writer or writers, have worked for a long time.

Here's something from the horse's mouth on the subject—the views of Herbert Hirschman, script editor for Alcoa Hour (NBC).

"Creative writing for television is far more difficult than any neophyte playwright might imagine. The remuneration is good—as high as $2,500 for an hourlong script on Alcoa Hour, for example, although some top TV shows pay $1,200—$100 over the $1,100 minimum required by the latest Writers' Guild pact.

"However, anybody who goes into TV writing mainly for the money involved is bound to fail. If he thinks that contrived situations, characterizations and dialogue will sell any TV editor.

"To be a successful writer, a person must sincerely feel he has something to say, a story to tell. Only in that way will the script have that essence of truth which the TV audience will recognize as such.

"One can't write a script evenings in a week after days spent working at a full-time job. Scripts grow only after months of hard, sustained work by even the most gifted of TV playwrights.

"After writing one, put it away for a week and don't even think about it. Too many young writers send their scripts out immediately after finishing them. A week's respite will give you a fresher approach to your work as a whole.

"A TV manuscript should be neat and legible, but the author need not follow a regular TV format. What is important is the content, not the format in which it is typed.

"The best way to handle the sale of a script is through a recognized literary agent who knows what type of drama might best suit what particular show. Scripts that come in unsolicited through the mail to producers of individual shows aren't given much attention because the chance of finding a good script among them is slim.

"But an agent's submissions are given serious attention because a producer knows a reputable agent won't submit poor material."

MILAN, Italy, (UP) —U.S. Ambassador Claire Booth Luce thinks Italy's post war progress has been "astounding."

But she warned both Italy and her own country against becoming complacent in the face of relative prosperity.

Mrs. Luce spoke to the American Chamber of Commerce here last night. It was the third anniversary of her arrival in Italy and "American Day" at the Milan Industrial Fair.

"Italy's progress in the last 10 years is astounding, well-nigh miraculous," Mrs. Luce said. "Barely a decade after seemingly hopeless chaos had engulfed this land, Italy is on the threshold of the most prosperous decade of her entire history."

With crucial nationwide local elections only 34 days away, she sounded a note of caution.

"In times of prosperity, people tend to go soft," she said. "A frustrating paradox of human affairs is that when things go well and when problems could be most easily solved, they are often solved—the catastrophe, greater or less, strikes and men are forced to do in pain and confusion what they might have done in ease and in reason."

LONDON, (UP) —Warsaw radio announced last night that Poland's Communist regime already has begun to rehabilitate prisoners convicted in the Josef Stal era.

The broadcast quoted Josef

Cyrankiewicz, chairman of the Polish Council of Ministers, as saying "rehabilitation of people wrongly convicted already is under way."

Cyrankiewicz told his parliament, the broadcast said, that "deep changes in Poland began more than a year ago and have intensified since the 20th Communist Party Congress in Moscow in February."

The first official indication that the anti-Stalin campaign had reached into Poland came last week with the announcement that several top officials had been relieved of their posts.

Then Sunday came the announcement that the government planned the release of 30,000 political prisoners and reduction of sentences for 70,000 more. Cyrankiewicz' statement was the first notice that this already was underway.

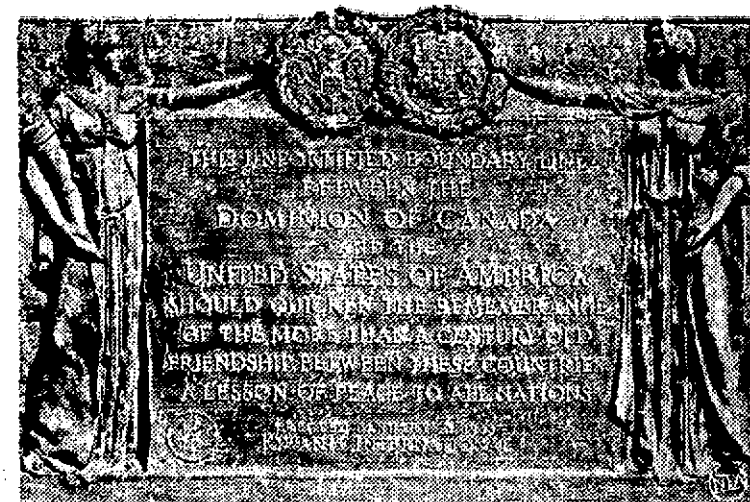

POLENSA, Island of Majorca, (UP) —Friends of Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco said today efforts were being made to stage a bull fight for the prince at Palma De Mallorca next Thursday.

The royal couple apparently have decided to spend the next two weeks of their honeymoon near the Balearic islands and the Spanish mainland, their friends said.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, (UP) —Authorities said today an animal trainer succeeded in recapturing all eight young lionesses that recently escaped from the zoo here.

The lionesses attacked domestic animals in the area, killing several, but were herded back into their cages without any trouble.

The unarmed lion tamer said all he had to do was to speak to the beasts calmly and soothingly.

PEACE AND GOOD WILL—The 35th annual celebration of U.S.-Canada Good Will Week (April 21-28) will also mark the 138th anniversary of the signing of the Eush-Bagot Agreement that demilitarized the border between the two countries. In 1955, to commemorate the peaceful coexistence, Kiwanis clubs in Canada and this country erected in Detroit a peace marker like that shown above. Today there are 25 of them along the border from the Atlantic to the Pacific. It is expected that some time this year the Kiwanis Club of Grand Forks, B.C., will put up a 26th.

Governor Gets His Answer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) —Gov. J. Bracken Lee, who refused to pay part of his Federal income tax and then asked the government what it was going to do about it, got his answer yesterday: a copy of tax collection regulations from the U. S. Treasury.

Lee is withholding payment of taxes on income of his which is not subject to withholding tax. He wants to force a court test of Congress' right to use the tax money for foreign aid — something he maintains is unconstitutional, along with the tax itself.

Lee says he got the booklet when he asked Treasury Secretary Humphrey to elaborate on an earlier statement that Lee's taxes would be collected "in the usual and customary manner . . . by filing a lien and levying on assets."

Massachusetts Write-in Push Enlivens Vote

By CORNELIU SF. HURLEY

BOSTON (AP) — A hot campaign for write-in votes today livened an other apathetic Massachusetts presidential primary.

A light vote was forecast. The weatherman said it will be fair in the morning, cloudy during the afternoon with rain or rain and snow mixed beginning by nightfall.

Most of the interest is in the Democratic ballot where a contest developed in the last few days for write-in support for Adlai Stevenson and for Rep. John W. McCormack, house majority leader. The write-in is not binding on the convention delegates being elected.

Neither Stevenson nor Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) campaigned in Massachusetts. Kefauver issued a statement last week asking his supporters to write in Rep. McCormack's name as the "favorite son" candidate or Massachusetts. Stevenson's backers, including his state chairman, state Sen. Maurice A. Donahue, and the state chapter of Americans for Democratic Action appealed to Democratic voters to back the 1952 standard bearer for another shot at the nomination.

Democratic State Chairman William H. Burke Jr., entered the fray yesterday with a statement in which he asked support for McCormack, and at the same time assailed the ADA's Stevenson write-in drive. Burke accused the ADA of trying to "take over" the Democratic Party.
